IN 35, 50 AND 100 LB. KEGS. FOR SALE BY H. L. PITTOCK, 5 Washington St.

Short Paragraphs.

It has been generally supposed that President Lincoln originated the custom of appointing a national Thanksgiving. A writer in the New York Times disputes the fact, and furnishes the copy of a proclamation of thanksgiving issued by President Washington, in 1780.

The latest investigations and analyses show that the supposed tin ore of Ogden, Utah, is merely gneiss or granitic rock, occurring not in veins but in masses and in open quarries on the side of a metamorphic mountain. This rock contains a little magnetic iron ore, hornblende, feldspar, quartz, iron pyrites and brown garnet. This is thought to be final for the present on the question of tin in the Rocky Mountains.

It would not answer to introduce the Koran in this country, it gives the women such an easy way of divorce. Under the Mahommedan law an aggrieved woman has only to place her slipper upside down before the Cadi, and a divorce is granted without further inquiry, as it is taken for granted that she would not seek such redress without the most pressing cause. In America, alas! what an army of reversed slippers would greet our learned "cadis" every court day.

There are large numbers of very old and poor persons along the coast in the New England States. Many of the men followed the sea in their early manhood, and a large number of the women are widows of sailors and fishermen who barely got a living in their best days. Nantucket furnishes a noteworthy example of these classes. In the poorhouse of that town there are fourteen persons ranging from seventy-one to eighty-nine years old, whose aggregate ages amount to 1,139 years.

The Superintendent of the Census reports to Congress that only 40,380 persons now remain disfranchised under the XIVth Amendment—probably not enough in any State to reduce the number of representatives to which it would be entitled did all vote. But he reports further that the Deputy Marshals reporting these figures may quite likely be mistaken, and it is alleged that the State of Georgia now sub stantially deprives about 50,000 colored men of the suffrage, by requiring that they should pay $6 poll tax before they can vote, and that her representation ought to be reduced according to the terms of the amendment.

The valuable lessons furnished by the Chicago conflagration to those who are interested in fire-proof construction are not yet at an end. In reply to an inquiry the Chicago Tribune says: "The experience of our fire decides us in favor of iron ceilings. It is stated that in all cases where the walls were not injured, and afforded a firm support for the iron beams, the iron arched ceilings were uninjured. More than half the ceilings of the Tribune building are said to be good, and all that will be needed is a coat of paint overhead and a floor to render the rooms as they were before the fire. It should be added that the iron arches are covered with mortar made of gravel and cement, an inch or more above the crown of the arch, and that this mortar, when dry, became hard.

Mr. Sumner's bill, reducing the internal taxes, and abolishing the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue, abolishes all internal taxes and duties, except from the sale and use of stamps, after the 1st of July; and increases the stamp duty on whisky to 50 cents a gallon; provides that no income tax shall be assessed on or after January 1, 1872. Assessments made before such date shall be collected. It abolishes the office of Commissioner and all subordinate offices after the first of September next, and instead of these it provides for one Collector of each State and Territory, who shall administer the law in the sale of stamps. After the first of September the duties of collecting the revenue are confined to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The Chicago fire is not the most fearful disaster of the past year. The Chinese floods, of which we received brief accounts, submerged 20,000 square miles of territory, an area exceeding that of one-third of England and Wales. When the fact of the extremely dense population of China is taken into consideration, the appalling nature of the catastrophe will better be appreciated. The flood occurred in the northern part of the empire, and was occasioned by the breaking of the banks of a river. When the first break occurred, the people might perhaps have stopped it, but instead of letting the people at work, the officials went to sacrifice to Yuen Shen, a fabulous tortoise of fish, who is supposed to control the waters. When their devotions were through the damage was past remedy.

Oregon.

Carvalis has an iron foundery.

Lebanon now has tri-weekly mail connection with Albany.

According to the Democrat they have "adulterous" liquor at Albany.

Money orders amounting to $13,879 were issued at the Oregon City postoffice last year.

Rev. P. S. Knight lectured at Oregon City on Wednesday evening. Subject, "Cynics."

The average attendance at the M. E. Sunday school at Salem is 225. Whole attendance for the year, 11,000.

The Statesman speaks favorably of the Salem water works, and says that the water taken from the bed of the Willamette river, where an active current prevails, has been found to be much more healthful than the average well water.

A letter from Forest Grove says: The number of families in the village is fifty. Population 300. There are in the place five dry goods stores, three churches, a well furnished district school house, a Masonic hall, two hotels, two blacksmith shops, one carpenter shop, one furniture shop, one wagon shop, one barber shop, two meat markets, two doctors of medicine, one doctor of divinity, four ministers of the gospel and "many" gin mill.

Sayings and Suggestions.

A quiet watering place—The milkman's.

Why is a whale like a water lily? Because it comes to the surface to blow.

When a man is "rooted to the spot," how long must he remain before he leaves.

There is a rumor that Andrew Johnson is not dead, and that his only hope for the country is in the return of A. J. to the Presidential chair.

We think there are at least six papers published in the United States that have not yet remarked that "Chicago will rise, Phœnix like, from her ashes."

Another Enoch Arden has turned up in Missouri. If there is any body who can forgive Tennyson for starting the first one he ought to die young.

"You don't think so highly of the hymenial knot as I do," said a wife to her husband. "Yes I do," he replied, "it is only when you wish to make it a double knot that I object to it."

The Albany Democrat thinks that opposition to the swamp land swindle comes from "wagon road sharks" who want the land. Pretty severe on our Democratic brethren of the Dalles and Snake River Wagon Road.

In Linn county Democrats are exhorted by the local organ thus: "Strike for your country and your free!" "Striking" on that principle in Missouri a few years ago was what made it necessary for many of them to quit that State.

General News Condensations.

On Union Island in Sacramento river a band of 2,000 sheep were drowned.

The Russian fleet has been ordered to remain at New York for the present.

Alexie was politely asked to go out on the plains for a buffalo hunt, but declined.

The President of a Boston street railroad company has been fined $20 for permitting forty-seven passengers to be crammed into one car.

The Western Pacific railroad at the head of Alameda canyon was broken by freshets and badly damaged. Cars were unable for several days to run through to Sacramento.

A dispatch from Cheyenne, dated Dec. 27th, says there were 547 passengers laid up there by the snow blockade. The eating houses improved the opportunity by charging $3 per meal.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in a communication to the Secretary of the Treasury, says he is of opinion that the amount of taxes paid or payable upon dividends, interest and undivided profits of corporations, for the last three months of the calendar year of 1870, is not far from $25,000,000.

There is due our Government from that of Colombia one hundred and seven thousand dollars, being the balance of awards under the Convention of 1847 and 1864. No payment has been made since 1868. The Colombian Minister at Washington asks an extension of time of four years, as his Government is bankrupt.

It is proposed to give the Secretary of War power to authorize the sale of all lands and tenements connected with all armories belonging to the United States which, in his judgment, are not necessary to the public service. The House Committee on Military Affairs has agreed to report favorably upon a bill providing for this disposition of property.

At Boston on the 27th ult. at a meeting of persons interested in the fisheries, it was decided to appoint a committee to wait upon the Senators and the Representatives in Congress and endeavor with them to obtain either a bounty, or some other means of neutralizing whatever evils the Treaty of Washington may threaten upon the fishermen.

Louis D. Campbell, the veteran Ohio politician-statesman, who has swung around the circle with almost every wind, now a Democrat, was recently interviewed on the Democratic "passing" policy, and being asked if he favored nominating a Republican for President, replied that, under the circumstances, he would favor Ulysses S. Grant as the strongest representative Republican."

Intelligence is received from the City of Mexico to the 20th. The Government commanders are in league with the revolutionists, and will form the entire border over to them. Treplno and the Governor of Tamaulipas are now consulting at Limeras. The attack on Mier is postponed, and there is disappointment among the troops on account of their non-payment. Strict orders have been issued against any goods going from the interior.

A New York dispatch of the 29th says: It is strongly suspected among reformers that the continuance of the Grand Jury and the Court of Oyer and Terminer is owing to the influence the object being to prevent the filing of further indictments by the general session of the Grand Jury of Oyer and Terminer. The jury has been occupied a long time in the investigation, and has spent many days over the case of Fisk, Jr., but thus far without any practical results.

There has been paid out of the United States Treasury the sum of $58,000,000 to indemnify States for money advanced in equipping troops during the late war. There are claims of this character which have been suspended by the Secretary of the Treasury amounting to $4,300,000, for money advanced for the purpose of meeting the payment of the law authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to use money for this purpose in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated having been repealed in 1870.

The Spanish Difficulty Ventilated.

A Washington dispatch of December 25th gives this:

The following is the correspondence called for by General Banks' resolution, requesting information relating to the execution of medical students in Havana and the failure of the Spanish Government to carry out in its West India Colonies the reforms voluntarily promised by the Sagasta Government in Spain. The correspondence commences far back as September 13, 1870. In November of that year Secretary Fish addressed United States Minister Sickles a letter in which he was instructed to represent to the Spanish Government the strong desire to have enforced the decree of emancipation of slaves in the Spanish West India Colonies. Spain owed it to herself to fulfill the just expectations of the civilized world in this respect, and she owed it to the United States to carry out in good faith this repeated pledge.

A BUNGLING LAW.

Minister Sickles wrote to Secretary Fish, January 13, 1871, that he furnished the Minister of the Colonies with a copy of the latter's note respecting the question of slavery and political reforms in Cuba and Porto Rico. The Minister informed him that the law passed by the Constituent Cortes on the 23d of June, 1870, has been fulfilled and obeyed in all its parts in Cuba, from the date of its publication, although the absence of regulations for its execution makes it necessary that what would otherwise have been a matter of mere form shall be made a basis for the clear determination of each case, and as to execution of the law may suffer obstructions, the Minister has determined upon a basis to serve as a starting point, and has transmitted the provisions of the law in order that definite regulations for carrying out the decree in question may be taken up without delay.

EMANCIPATION URGED.

Secretary Fish, on February 28th last, instructed Minister Sickles to continue to urge the fulfillment of the emancipation decree and other promised reforms. Among the papers is a letter from Vice Consul General Hall to Assistant Secretary of State Davis, dated November 20th, giving a circumstantial account of the alleged desecration of the grave of Carstairon, the Key West martyr, as he was held to be a portion of the peninsular population. The medical students, he says, did not break, but merely made a few scratches with a diamond upon the glass plate that encases the niche, and removed or destroyed the wreath, and replaced it with one of their own construction. The Governor-General was utterly powerless and thoroughly intimidated by the volunteers, and was finally obliged to compromise with them by ordering a drum-head court martial to try the prisoners, and it was found necessary to prevent a more serious conflict that some at least of the young men should be sacrificed. The court martial, composed of equal numbers of regular and volunteer officers, convened at 2 o'clock in the morning, and at noon the sentence was given out. The execution took place at 5 in the afternoon, up to which hour the volunteers kept up their demonstrations before the prisons and palace. Throughout the whole of this affair the Government displayed its utter helplessness in dealing with such emergencies. The regular force at the command was very insignificant, while that of the volunteers was large, and readily concentrated, and was in the instance, when nearly unanimous of purpose, overpowering. Hall concludes by saying that during the commotion great alarm prevailed among the Cubans, and not a little among foreigners. There were well-founded apprehensions that a general massacre of Cubans was intended, and to this, possibly, may be attributed one of the motives for compromise with the volunteers, and the sacrifice of the young men. Hence he sent the following telegram, November 27, 1871.

"The volunteers are making demonstrations against the authorities. The Government is powerless, and there are serious apprehensions of a massacre at every moment. The presence of a vessel-of-war is advisable.

INSTRUCTIONS TO OUR NAVAL OFFICERS.

The Secretary of the Navy replies to that part of the resolutions calling for copies of instructions to the naval commanders of the United States in Cuban waters for the protection of the lives and property of American citizens and to maintain the dignity of the American flag, with the general and specific instructions which were furnished to each officers. The first is to Rear Admiral Hoff, dated April 7, 1869, in which he says:

"Appeals are constantly made to you for the protection of persons justly entitled to it, while others have only a claim to your sympathy and friendly offices. You must exercise your best judgment and discriminate in such cases; but all citizens of the United States, native born or naturalized, in Cuba, engaged in lawful pursuits, respecting the laws of the country and taking no part in the measures to overthrow the Government are entitled to your protection as fully as you are able to extend it."

SEARCHING AMERICAN VESSELS.

On May 6, 1869, the Secretary of the Navy wrote to Admiral Hoff that reports came to the Department through the press and telegrams, of several American vessels having been searched by Spanish men-of-war in British waters and on the high-waters of nations, in the Gulf of Mexico. "While the United States Government," he wrote, "wishes to observe a strict neutrality in regard to the difficulties now existing in the Island of Cuba, they cannot consent that our merchant vessels shall be molested in their lawful occupations, or even hauled as are used unless they are found committing some violation of Spanish law; this they can only do by landing arms and munitions of war. This is a subject upon which the United States have always been very sensitive, and on which they went to war with Great Britain in 1812. While you are in no way to interfere in the difficulties now existing in Cuba, or to compromise the Government by taking part with either side, it will be your duty to give full protection to American citizens and American commerce wherever an opportunity occurs for you to do so. This is the particular object for which a naval force is at this moment kept in Cuban waters." In an dated June 3, 1870, the Secretary of the Navy says, among other things: "It is desirable that you should keep some of your vessels stationed on the north and south end of the island of Cuba, and at such ports as the so-called insurgents should convene at for escape from the island. While the Department does not desire that you should seek any opportunity to encourage these distressed persons to seek the protection of the United States flag, you will in no case refuse shelter on board the vessels of your fleet, and when they are under the protection of the flag their persons and property will be held sacred against the interference of the Spanish authorities. In no case will you give up any prisoners escaping from the island, except by authority from this Department."

On March 24, 1870, the Secretary of the Navy instructed Rear Admiral Poor among other things as follows:

"While you will be careful in any contingency which may arise to pay due respect to

you will take care at all times to maintain the rights of your own Government.

Information having been received that affairs are much disturbed in the western department of Cuba, and that are constantly taking place, and that there was a dangerous and disorderly state of affairs in that quarter which might affect some of our citizens and interests, the following instructions were sent by the Secretary of the Navy to Rear Admiral Lee on the 19th of July, 1871:

"As soon as possible after the receipt here of visit Santa de Cuba in person, and send some vessel of your fleet to that port and elsewhere in the vicinity for the protection, if necessary, of our citizens and their interests."

The Secretary of the Navy wrote to Rear Admiral Lee, August 15, 1871, as follows:

"Your dispatch of the 10th inst. relating to

was duly received. In answer you were instructed on the 4th inst., by telegraph, to send a vessel to Port-au-Prince to inquire into the sub

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1872.

The Civil Service and Party Patronage.

An article in the Herald clamors for civil service reform, and commends the efforts of Senator Trumbull in that direction. The distinguished Senator's late speech on that subject was a good one and brought out a fact which should make the Herald more modest. It is to Andrew Jackson that the country owes the introduction of the system of turning men out of office because their political principles are not those of the administration and filling their places with partisans. Till his advent, our civil service was conducted on business principles, but he introduced the system which our neighbor thinks so corrupt and abominable. During Democratic administrations succeeding his, what opponent of that party was ever tolerated in the public service? Of course if the Democratic party now had power it would not reform its own invention. It never made any efforts toward civil service reform during its own long terms of office, and the only periods now in earnest on the subject are Republicans.

It is said by the Herald that the resolution recently introduced by Senator Trumbull is a "practical movement for reform in the civil service." This resolution proposes to provide for "restraining the public service from being used as an instrument of party patronage." The Herald calls this "practical reform." We do not say it is not. But is that paper prepared to say that its own party, if it gets power, will carry out this "practical reform?" Can it promise that no man shall be removed from, or appointed to, office on account of his political opinions? Can it give assurance that fitness shall be the sole test, without regard to any political or party considerations whatever? Of course it cannot. It would promise nothing of the kind if it could. It would think it ridiculous absurdity for its party, if it should obtain power, to inaugurate the "practical reform in the civil service" which it demands of Republicans. The Democrat who would propose, after the election of a Democratic President (supposing such a thing possible) to bring his party up to the doctrine of Trumbull's resolution, would be treated with derision. Now that they are out of power, they clamor for "reform." Put them in power, and they would stick to the system which they invented and which they followed as long as they controlled the Government.

The Herald will not pledge its party to the "reform" which it would exact from Republicans. Nobody would believe it, if it did. Here is a practical test of its insincerity in its demands for "reform in the civil service." There is not a person in the Union who is such an idiot as to suppose that the Democratic party, if in power, would "restrain the civil service from being used as an instrument of party patronage." How is it in Oregon? What opponent of the Democratic party is in the public service whom that party has power to remove? Does it not use the public service exclusively as an instrument of party patronage? And has it not racked its ingenuity to devise new methods of creating patronage expressly for party purposes? What of the litigant law? It was notoriously devised to create patronage for the party. So was the Portland police bill. And so, in a great measure, was the swamp land act. Are not the Herald and its party in a pretty fix to become advocates of civil service reform and the exclusion of political patronage from the civil service, according to the method proposed by Senator Trumbull?

Sham Zeal.

At the time when the people of New York were driving out for the Democratic ring that had been plundering their city, Tweed and Hall attempted to sacrifice their confederate Connolly, hoping thereby to appease the public wrath and save themselves. Connolly, however, declined to be offered up as a sacrifice for sins which were theirs as well as his, and at once placed his office and the secrets of the ring's operations in the hands of the reform party. Forwards he was arrested for his criminal. One of the comic papers had a cartoon representing the scene at his arrest. The Sheriff called upon him to serve the warrant. "What!" exclaimed Connolly. "Arrest me! I'm a Reformer!"

This fairly illustrates the course of the Democratic party in reference to national matters. Finding themselves overthrown on account of their corruption in New York, they now turn about like Connolly, and claim to be "reformers," and charge all sorts of corrupt practices upon their opponents. We are told that there is in every department of the General Government a "deep, damning, festering corruption," "scandalous rottenness," and the like. Our Connolly's are turned reformers, and are making a wonderful show of sham zeal in their new calling.

Something like a fortnight ago a debate took place in the United States Senate upon a resolution to provide for a searching investigation by a joint committee of the two houses into the management of the civil service, the expenditures of the Government, the accounts of disbursing officers, etc. The Republican Senators divided upon questions concerning the proper scope and subject matter of the resolution; but of course no Senator thought of taking ground against a thorough investigation. Instantly the cry was started and caught up by the whole Democratic press of the country that an investigation had been demanded and the administration was opposing it, knowing that secrets would be revealed of a character most damaging to it and to the Republican party. It was said that the Administration dared not permit an investigation, and for two or three days the opposition press fairly ran wild. After proper deliberation, however, the Senate passed the resolution to create the special joint Committee, and the "reformers" of the Connolly sort began to grow quiet again, and to realize that they hadn't so good a thing for a sensation as they supposed.

The Republican Administration at Washington has nothing to conceal. It has no secrets which the people may not know. It wears no mask. It has nothing to lose, but everything to gain by sharp critical investigation of all its operations. It will satisfy the country of the general integrity of its conduct, of its readiness to root out all abuses that may be discovered, and to bring violators of public trusts to merited punishment. It possesses the confidence of the Country from the first, and will retain it.

The types made us say, in speaking of the removal of Mr. Mackem, that it was probably attributable to "misrepresentations of the Department." We wrote "misrepresentations to the Department." Here is an instance where a slight change makes a great difference.

The New Hampshire Democrats have held their Convention and adopted a platform. The New York Herald says that the platform is "trimming and evasive," and declares that the Republicans have a "clear field" in the New England States in 1872.

SATURDAY MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1872.

CITY.

SPECIAL CHURCH NOTICES.—The first missionary concert for the year 1872 of the Taylor street M. E. Church, will be held to-morrow at 2 o'clock P. M. The occasion will be one of interest and all are invited to attend.

The second quarterly meeting for the present conference year will be held at the Taylor street M. E. Church, to-day and to-morrow. This quarterly occasion was preceded by the regular monthly class meeting Thursday evening, and prayer meeting last night. There will be preaching this evening and conference meeting Tuesday evening.

The week of prayer appointed by the Evangelical Alliance, commences on Sunday. In addition to the services to be held in the Churches, there will be a monday prayer meeting at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association during the week, commencing on Monday, to which all are invited.

INSTALLATION.—The officers of Hassalo Lodge No. 15, I. O. O. F., were installed last evening for the current term, by D. D. G. Master G. C. McConnell, as follows: Jos. Buchtel, N. G.; C. W. Parrish, V. G.; C. P. Crandall, R. S.; A. G. Walling, Treasurer; A. J. Marshall, R. S. of N. G.; Thos. H. Crawford, L. S. of N. G.; W. S. Stevens, W.; J. A. Smith, Con.; S. B. Parrish, R. S. S.; W. H. Butts, L. S. S.; Dan'l Sprague, O. G.; Wm. McMasters, I. G.; O. N. Denny, R. S. of V. G.; Geo. H. Durham, L. S. of N. G.

ANOTHER ADDITION TO EAST PORTLAND.—East Portland has indulged in another spread. This time Rev. Clinton Kelly is the man who contributes to expand the borders of our ambitious rival municipality. He has laid off a tract of land adjoining Stephens' Addition to the east, and he called it Kelly's Addition. He offers lots or lots on terms of part payment down and the balance in easy installments. For particulars call on DeLashmutt & Burch, in this city.

SALE OF THE COLUMBIA.—We hear through a letter to Captain W. A. Troup, that four men left on the ice from Switzler's, Oregon, to the mill on the wharf at Vancouver yesterday. The river is reported open from the Cascades to Cottonwood Point, and from that point it is closed for seven or two miles, to the Wallamet. The steamer [illegible] will go over at 3:30 this A. M., touching at the ice limit on the Washington Territory side of the Columbia.

STILL FURTHER DAMAGED.—It will be remembered that not long ago the Windward, bound from San Francisco for this port, lost all her masts in a gale at Sand Island, in the mouth of the Columbia. Afterward she was towed up the river some distance, and anchored where she received further damage to a considerable extent by running afoul of ice during the late cold weather [illegible] lie in the river almost a wreck.

ARRIVAL OF VESSELS.—The bark Whistler, C. [illegible] Simpson, master, arrived at this port at 10 A. M. [illegible] days from San Francisco, with a full cargo of merchandise. The Whistler has been thoroughly repaired since her late trial by fire, and is a better vessel than she was before the fire. The bark Harrington, with a cargo of railroad iron for the Oregon Central Railroad, arrived also yesterday.

MAILS COMING.—The readers of eastern papers will be delighted to learn that there is now a chance of getting another mail before the opening of Spring. The agent at Eugene telegraphed yesterday that the through eastern mails, by way of California, would reach Portland next week, by which means, we suppose, that they are now somewhere this side of Sacramento.

ODD FELLOWS OF OREGON CITY.—The elective officers of Oregon Lodge No. 3, Oregon City, for the current term, are S. D. Rose, N. G.; W. H. Marshal, V. G.; Chas. E. Warren, R. S. N. G.; C. Ady, P. S.; J. Worthen, Treasurer. Trustees, Chas. Appleton, N. W. Randall and B. A. Hughes.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS CALLED.—The first twenty miles of the Oregon Central Railroad having been completed and accepted by the Commissioners, the subscriptions to the subsidy are due, and the Company gives notice to that effect. Subscribers are [illegible] to the Co.'s office.

SPECIAL MEETING.—There will be a special meeting of the Father Matthew Temperance and Benevolent Society at half past 6 o'clock this evening for the purpose of making arrangements to attend the funeral of Edward Martin, a deceased member.

PRESENTATION.—Last evening the members of Multnomah Lodge presented their retiring N. G., Ed. H. Hollis, with a fine silk hat of the latest mode, as a testimonial of their esteem for him as a man and brother, and his capacity as a Lodge officer.

STEAMERS.—The steamer Senator has been withdrawn from the Portland and Oregon City route and temporarily laid up. The opposition boat Carrie has resumed business.

BOARD OF DELEGATES.—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Delegates of the Fire Department will be held at half past seven o'clock this evening at the Police Court room.

AMUSEMENTS.

MACBETH.—"Nobody's Child" will be given at the matinee at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

MINSTRELS.—The Purdy & Vincent Minstrel Troupe, having made a tour up the valley, will play at Oregon City this evening.

OREGON THEATER.—To-night Schiller's great tragedy of the Robbers of Bohemia, will be performed for the first time in this city. Mr. Waldron will take his great character of Charles De Moor, and Mrs. Waldron will personate Amelia, the two supported by a strong cast, and the play will be mounted with all the appropriate scenery and properties.

CHURCH HALL STREET CHURCH BENEFIT.—Next Saturday evening, the 13th inst., there will be a musical and literary entertainment at the Hall street M. E. Church for the benefit of the pastor. The Committee having the matter in charge have secured the services of Prof. L. L. Rogers for an address, and Prof. McGibbeny to direct the musical exercises. The programme contains three musical performances before the lecture, and one after it. The admission will be fifty cents.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mr. Pfunder has sent to China an order for fine plumage birds.

A part of the frame of the new hotel on Holladay avenue is up.

The Young Men's Literary Society will hold a meeting to-morrow at its rooms on Sixth street.

The County and Circuit Courts will meet today to close up the business of their respective terms.

U. P. Mason, Esq., will deliver the next lecture before the Washington Debating Society January 16th.

An inmate of the county hospital, named John Mattikan, died of consumption on the 3d inst., aged 35 years.

The ice in the Columbia is breaking up and boats are expected to connect through to the Dalles by Monday.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

AUCTION SALE.—At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. A. B. Richardson will sell at auction a large lot of dry goods, woolens and clothing.

We hear, that about a half a dozen young gentlemen, among the best skaters in Portland, will skate at the Rink this evening, in burlesque costumes. We think this will furnish fun enough for a thousand.

REMOVAL.—Dr. E. R. Freeland, dentist, has removed to his new rooms in Dekum's building, corner First and Washington streets, where, having more commodious and pleasant apartments, he is better than ever prepared to operate with his well known skill.

FIRM DISSOLVED.—The firm of Kohn & Fichel has undergone a change. Our old friend Joseph Kohn has purchased the interest of Chas. Fichel and will conduct business hereafter at the old stand on his own account. Mr. Kohn has been for several years identified, with the interests, growth and business of the city, and has, by fair and liberal dealing, shown himself deserving of the large patronage which the firm turns over to him.

DR. LINDSLEY'S LECTURE.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

The first of the series of lectures projected by the Washington Debating Society, was delivered on Thursday evening to a large and intelligent audience, which, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, had assembled to hear an exposition of the puzzle called "The Eastern Question."

Dr. Lindsley began by congratulating the audience upon a return of the Lecture season, which afforded agreeable opportunities for rational entertainment.

As the object of the Society to whom the public is indebted for this course of lectures, is intelligent improvement, the speaker felt bound to select a subject which would contribute to this end.

"The Eastern Question" was just now exciting renewed attention, in consequence of the visit to our country of the Grand Duke Alexis, who would no doubt participate in the settlement of that question. Many speculations have been indulged in respecting the purpose of his visit, some attaching great political or diplomatic importance to it. But it is quite as probable that he has come as any other young man would, to gratify his curiosity and improve his mind by the observation of men and manners in foreign countries. It may be his lot to rule over the eighty millions of Russia; and some acquaintance with the workings and results of our free institutions could be made very valuable to him and to his countrymen.

The visit of the Grand Duke, son of the mightiest emperor in the world, has naturally turned our eyes toward his country, and leads us to conjecture what its fate may be, amidst the commotions which are constantly disturbing the governments of Europe.

Russia was one of the latest of the European states to wheel into the line of modern civilization. At the close of the seventeenth century, very little was known about its inhabitants or its territory. It was to the ancients a land almost unknown, or known as a region of terrors, which the few voyages like those of Jason and other Greek explorers, and military expeditions like those against the fierce fleet Scythians, did not dispel.

The ages rolled by, and history finds only a few events worthy of record, until in the tenth century the Muscovites are compelled by imperial edict to accept of Christianity as expressed in the creed and through the ceremonial of the Eastern or Greek Church.

Again ages rolled by, bringing but few memorable events to Russia, while they were filling the world with changes of the grandest significance. The revival of learning, the art of printing, the mariner's compass, the new world, the great reformation, the decay of feudalism and consequent relaxation of political oppression—all these were shedding their combined light upon Western Europe, while Russia remained in the shade. Art and science, learning and religion, geographical discovery and colonization, commercial enterprise and the amicable intercourse of nations, betokening universal brotherhood, were leading the march of liberty and civilization on both sides of the Atlantic, and at length stirred the inert mass of Russia.

While Louis XIV., misnamed the Grand, for he was grand only in his infamy, was prosecuting his schemes of conquest and rapacity, checkmated as he moved his puppets on the chessboard by William III., a youthful czar lifts his eyes above the sunken horizon of Russia and resolves that his people shall stand abreast of the foremost in the march of nations.

The lecturer then portrayed the character of Peter the Great and described his plans and achievements for the realization of his stupendous aims. He conquered Finland to get a new front on the Baltic Sea, built a new capital thereon and made it a commercial metropolis, founded scientific and literary institutions in it, attracted masters of art and science and learning to his court, built a navy, created an army, intersected the whole country with a system of canal and river navigation, greatly enlarged his empire by conquest, dispatched scientific as well as military expeditions to distant parts of Siberia, sent Behring to explore the unknown northeastern coast of Asia, and in a great variety of ways developed the material resources of his empire.

As a ruler, he introduced a system of internal police, improved the administration of justice, curbed the lawlessness of his nobles and protected the lower classes.

These wise and vigorous measures were successful to an extraordinary degree. Russia's day was dawning, arousing to new life the largest empire of contiguous territory on the face of the earth.

Her material interests flourished, but her prosperity was checked by obstacles to foreign trade, by which her surplus products could find a market. St. Petersburg was situated too far north and too easily blockaded by ice or hostile fleet. A magnificent city for a nation's capital, but no center for a cosmopolitan commerce. Modern enterprise could not brook the tardy movements of annual fairs, although the most expensive in the world were held in the interior of Russia. There was, however, this result. The display of precious stones, of fragrant woods and furs, and of splendid fragments from Asia, strengthened the desire to enlarge the domestic trade with the Orient, and to share it with the world.

As the conquests of Russia were extended along the shores both of the Black Sea and the Caspian, the national desire to possess an outlet through the Mediterranean Sea to the world's ocean highways, stiffened into a national purpose, and finally shaped the purpose of the Empire. That policy undertakes to drive the Turks out of Europe, and to make Constantinople a Russian city.

This is the hereditary policy of the Empire. It has entered more or less into every Russian war, and pervades Russian diplomacy.

The lecturer then described the situation of Constantinople, its foundation, its history, its present condition. No city is better located for the intercourse and trade of three grand divisions of the globe, Europe, Asia and Africa. It has a history of thrilling interest, and a future of grander proportions. Its geographical connections with Russia and its Asiatic dependencies, were then pointed out. The water shed of half of Europe and perhaps a third of Asia, descends to the Black and Caspian Seas. And the only outlet of the Black Sea is the Bosphorus.

Who shall hold Constantinople? The Turk cannot hold it long. He is not worthy. He is an alien in Europe. His origin, his customs, his tastes are Asiatic. His religion is effete. Let him go back to his Asiatic home.

Russia is hindered by the leading powers of Europe, among whom England has become most conspicuous. Her commercial policy dictates her hostility to the hereditary claim of Russia. The trade of Eastern Asia, coveted by commercial nations from time immemorial, is extensively monopolized by Great Britain, but a flourishing commercial city on the Bosphorus would become a vigorous competitor.

Russian policy towards Constantinople and European opposition to it, constitute "The Eastern Question." What will probably be its solution?

The Turk must leave it. The "sick man" is past cure. The Russian may get it. He will watch his chances. He may gain by diplomacy what war has not won. Or, an independent nation, formed of the non-Turkish races now on the ground, may resume supremacy.

The lecturer described a few of the indications upon which this last opinion rests, and closed with a fervent wish for the extension of free institutions throughout the world.

The speaker illustrated his subject by frequent reference to a large map which was suspended in view of the audience, making many points exceedingly plain and instantly understood.

The foregoing is a very imperfect outline of a lecture which was received with great satisfaction by the audience. We wish that all who are not familiar with the subject, could have heard it, and especially the young people in our schools.

Sunday, Jan. 14.—SERMONS: "Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done in earth as it is done in heaven."

A HISTORY OF A RAILROAD.

The completion of the first twenty miles of the Oregon Central Railroad seems to have elevated the west-side people into a state of beatitude. It is understood that they spend most of their time now, hallelujahing, conversing in operatic strains, (very strafing upon them, in consequence of inexperience) walking upon poetic feet, and slashing around generally on wonderfully high stilts. The following from a correspondent who used to be a staid writer of the plain English idiomatic school, will serve to show how the people over the mountain have become beatitudeized. It is simply an attempt to tell how it all came about. In view of the stilted style we are moved to give the communication the title of

A SACRED HISTORY OF THE WEST-SIDE RAILROAD.

There gathered together in the years gone by, certain men, and they formed unto themselves a tribe called the Oregon Central Railroad Company. And they sought to build unto themselves a nation extending through the regions of Oregon; and they sent out spies to spy out a road through which to travel; and the spies returned and reported a country flowing with milk and honey beyond the mountains.

Then said the chief-men, We will go ourselves unto the inhabitants of that country and make peace with them. And they came and said to the people, If you will give unto us one-third of thy lands we will join with thee and make thee a great nation.

And the people answered, My lords what have we done to find favor in thy sight. And they gave.

Then returned a chief of the tribe and said, Give us the right-of-way, that we may go on our journey. And they gave.

Then came other chiefs and said, Take thou stock with us, and be thou of us. And they took stock, even unto another third.

Then came another chief, even he that ruled the tribe, and said, My people labor in the wilderness of Pattigonia; give unto us of thy abundance. And the people gave, of wheat a thousand centals, of oats five thousand sacks, and of potatoes loaded they their asses; and cabbage and turnips gave they without stint. And the maidens brought in butter, and eggs, and fowls, that they might not perish.

And the tribe continued laboring in the wilderness for the space of twelve months. Then the chief priests came unto the people and said, Give unto us of thy money, even that which is in thy Treasury; and give unto us also thy people's bond that thou will pay us more. For verily unless we are secured we will perish in the wilderness of the Pattigonia. And the people gave.

Then came the chief of the tribe unto the rulers and said, Take thou our script as a lawful trade. Then rose up the young men and clamored and made a great noise; so much so that the rulers dared not do it. And the chiefs waxed wroth, and scattered their tribe insomuch that they cannot be found.

After all this there came a wise man from the east to view out a land for himself, and he said, I will build unto myself a road, and I will encompass the land that floweth with milk and honey, and I will make the people a great nation. And he builded it, and sweareth peace unto the inhabitants. And behold the people now rejoice much by with great joy and are exceeding glad.

TESTIMONIALS.

We the undersigned having been the recipients of the services of Mrs. M. C. White in teaching the science of Music on the Pianoforte, take pleasure in giving a hearty Testimonial that we have employed her in our families as a teacher of her "New Method of Instruction," and that it has proved a success to any method we have ever known. And that although the first cost may be a trifle greater than some others, we believe it to be in the aggregate much cheaper, both being a great economy in point of time. We therefore take pleasure in recommending her to the patronage of all who may be desirous of obtaining a musical education, as a very superior instructor.

To those who desire to know more about it before increasing any expense, we give a cordial invitation to call at our house and interview her pupils.

Warning Words.

The strength and the nervous energy of the human body ought to be at its demand during the winter, for two reasons: In the first place, diseases of the most deadly character may be generated at this season; and it is, therefore the utmost importance that during the cold weather months the system should be put in a condition to withstand the effects of the Spring miasma, and the enervating heats of Summer. It is therefore advisable, in fact essential, to tone, regulate and invigorate the digestive and secretive organs at this period of the year, and of all the stomachics and alteratives at present known, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the most powerful, the most harmless, and the most agreeable. The temperature of winter would be in itself a glorious tonic, if it did not, unfortunately, bring with it a volume of chilling moisture and unwholesome winds, which have a bad effect on the skin and lungs. These must be guarded against, or there is no security for health. The effect of a course of the Bitters is to give vigor and tone to the entire organization—the sanguineal mass and nerves, as well as the internal viscera. A regular habit a healthy and natural flow of bile, an active digestion, a good appetite, pure blood, and a vigorous circulation of that fluid, are among the blessings derived from a persistent use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which not only more than supplies the place of the host of tonics, cathartics and antidotes prescribed in their separate forms by physicians, but performs the threefold work of invigoration, regulation and purification, at one and the same time.

Of all the joys vouchsafed to man
In this temptation's whirl,
There's naught approaches heaven so near
As skating with a girl—
A rosy, laughing, buxom girl;

Smiling, winning, light, jolly lass;
Jaunty, jovial, pouer-pulsing,
Dear little darling, with a red hat and white feather,
Who snuggles right up against your heart to shield you
from the weather;
Who laughs at you with a mouth of pearl—
A deep dimple dwelt on a cheek;
Pile up your wealth to elevations high,
Your sweetings, scamp, extol,
I'll laugh as I go dashing by—
With my ringing skates and girl—
The brightest, dearest, sweetest girl;
The frolicsome, gayest, merriest girl;
The funniest, flashest, frankest, fairest,
Roundest, ripest, roguishest, rarest,
Spunkiest, spiciest, equinomial, squarest,
Best of girls, with dimpling smiles,
Half concealing sardonic flashes—
Just the girl for a chap like me
To court and woo, and marry, you see—
With rosy cheeks and clustering curls,
The sweetest and the best of girls.

Tippling Women in New York.

There has been much discussion of an article published in one of our most respectable literary weeklies, some months since, which asserted that the vice of intemperance was appallingly prevalent among the woman of New York city. Not the low degraded creatures who mock womanhood by their orgies in the Five Points and Water street localities, but fashionable women—women who move in good society, dress with elegance, and have the manners and the education of the better classes.

The statements of the article have been indignantly denied in some quarters, and its author has been pronounced a villifier of his fair country women; but if exposure is necessary to secure reform, it becomes the duty of some one to bring to light the hidden veil. Is it true, then, that in New York women are in the habit of tippling? In answer to this question I will present some facts which have come to my knowledge, and the reader may draw his own conclusions. I propose neither to moralize nor to generalize, but to particularize.

There is, or there was very recently—a daughter of one of the most prominent and wealthy business men of New York, an inmate of an asylum for the cure of habitual inebriates. She is, aside from this sad vice, a young lady who, it is said, has adorned the circles of New York society in which she moved. She had become so wedded to the habit of getting intoxicated that it was deemed imperatively necessary to remove her from the reach of temptation, and subject her to a course of medical treatment that might break up the fatal practice.

Near Fifth Avenue, in a fashionable uptown street, is a genteel hotel—or, more strictly speaking, a boarding house for fashionable families, though it calls itself a hotel, and bears a sign over the door to that effect. There is no public bar in this house, and it is not open for the accommodations for travelers. Its inmates are exclusively well-to-do families, and individuals of both sexes, who all dress, converse, and behave as fashionable New Yorkers commonly dress, converse and behave. A lady of my acquaintance, who boarded in this house last winter relates that the use of liquor was common with several of the women who lived there. There was especially one lady—a charming lady in other respects—who was almost habitually tipsy, and visited the rooms of other ladies while in that condition. One night, at the hour of two o'clock, this lady came to the room of my acquaintance and rapped loudly. When the door was opened she visitor entered in a state of beastly intoxication. With a thick and stumbling utterance, she declared she was sick, and wanted brandy.

"I have no brandy," was the reply. "Go back to bed."

The woman refused to go without being furnished with brandy. She made such a disturbance that the occupants of other rooms [illegible] finally succeeded in putting her out of the room by main force.

The next morning the nocturnal visitor called upon the lady she had disturbed and made an abject apology. She said that her husband had taken her brandy bottle from her, and that the deprivation drove her nearly wild.

So much annoyance was occasioned by the conduct [illegible] of a debasing appetite that it was resolved to complain of her to the landlady and secure her ejection from the house. [illegible] ation was taken at a late hour of the night, when she was retiring in a state of [illegible]. When the complainants arrived at the door of the landlady's room a whisky was on the first floor, a considerable [illegible] from the scene of disturbance they paused, hearing a nigger voice speaking within. What was their consternation at finding that the landlady herself was drunk, and that her husband was at that moment taking her to bed for it! Of course all purpose of complaining was at once abandoned. I know of another instance of a lady who was found staggering about the hall of a large hotel, late at night, in a state of profound intoxication.

One night, when I was returning home, between two and three o'clock, [illegible] my usual [illegible] in one of the New York morning [illegible] by a noise in the hall. Upon opening my door I saw a group of two ladies and two gentlemen. They were all more or less drunk. There were two ladies and two gentlemen. One of the ladies was nearly helpless from intoxication; the other was only [illegible] enough to be silly, and, in short, unlady like. She had been for conduct that I believe [illegible] to be a woman of ill repute; but subsequently learned that she was the young and beautiful daughter of one of our most respectable families.

The above are rather dark examples. The sun shines on others quite as painful.

My sister, a widow lady from the interior of the State, [illegible] visiting in the city, called on me to-day at my office. She informs me that there was a well-dressed woman, well appearing in other respects, in the street car that she had just left, who was so deeply intoxicated that she was incapable of entering or leaving the car without assistance. She also tells me that on the Hudson river steamboat which brought her to town, a few weeks since, a New York lady of elegant manners and dress, and whose conversation had charmed her during the evening, confidentially offered her a "swig" from her brandy bottle, as they were retiring to their staterooms for the night.

"Thank you, I never taste liquor," said my sister.

"No? So much the better for you. As for me, I cannot exist without it."

One of the fashionable institutions of New York is what is termed a "lady's lunch." It is in reality an elaborate dinner, for which invitations are extended to ladies only, and is given at an hour of the day when the gentlemen are down town on business, in Wall street and elsewhere. Wines, liquors, &c., are common in Fifth Avenue, and on all the fashionable days, and places. There are generally given with the lunch, or dinner, the following courses of beverages: With the oysters, Chablis or Sauterne; with the soup and fish, sherry; with the meats, Champagne and Burgundy; and after coffee, curacoa, anisette, and other liquors, and frequently brandy. As a natural result, the ladies get hilarious, some of them deeply intoxicated, and scenes and dances follow, that, to say the least, would not be indulged in elsewhere. This orgy is kept up till exhaustion supervenes, and about 5 o'clock, P. M., the feminine debauchees enter their carriages and are driven to their aristocratic homes.

The foregoing facts I can verify. With regard to the statement that there are distillers who furnish their customers wine, brandy and whisky, I cannot speak from knowledge. Such other facts, as the mortification of fashionable ladies over their champagne at dinners; their drinking beer in oyster saloons; their calling for whisky slings and gin cocktails in popular Broadway restaurants; and the like, I deem too common, too well known, too obvious to every day observers, to call for mention.

These facts are given not to cater to a vicious taste for scandal, but to call attention to a growing evil, against which public sentiment should be aroused before it assumes proportions too large to defy correction. Further than this I offer no comment on them.—New York Watchman and Reflector.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

PORTLAND, FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 5, 1872.

Gold in New York 109¾.

Portland Legal Tender quotations 9 ⅞ buying; 9¾ selling.

The steamer Ajax arrived last evening, five days four hours from San Francisco. She is announced to leave on Monday.

The bark Alden Besse and Harrington, with railroad iron, arrived, and will commence discharging immediately.

The Bark Whistler arrived to-day, and it is thought will commence discharging on Monday January 8th.

The Alden Besse has been chartered by Wm Koch & Co., for Cuba. Her cargo will consist of 8,000 bbls. flour, of which amount 5,000 bbls was purchased some time ago.

The Oregon Central Railroad freight train, taken forward the first regular shipment of goods to merchants in Washington county, to-morrow. Shipments of produce from the interior by this line will come in regularly from and after the first of next week.

The bark Almatia was passed by the Dixie Thompson, bound up, this side of Woody Island.

We have on two or three occasions called attention to the Oswego Iron Mines, and no more opportune time for receiving smelting by the Oswego Iron Company than now could be chosen. The consumption of these world has increased to such an extent that none but those directly interested in the Iron or Hardware business have the least conception. The increased consumption will be retained, or if lessened one year will be restored the next. The labor organization, which had its origin in the United States, soon spread to all parts of Europe, resulting in strikes for either fewer working hours or higher wages. So systematic were these strikes made that employers had to accede to the demand; and as a consequence Iron (one of the branches of industry affected in value by the strikes) has been advancing in England and also in Pennsylvania, at last mail advices, as informed by private letter, the market was 9l a and still tending up for Glasgow, costing, laid down here or in San Francisco, with duty paid, $47@47 50 per ton. From all information obtainable we as prices will recede from the point now attained. What more profitable enterprize can our citizens engage in than the working of the Oswego Iron Mines? It is claimed, and rightfully too, we believe, that the Trait made has no superior in the world, and it is also claimed, that the ore can be extracted, smelted, and turn out a superior quality of Iron in the, which when placed on board of vessels for shipping at a cost not exceeding $20 per ton, and it is claimed by some that the Iron can be placed on board the vessel at even $15 per ton, free of everything. There is no community in the world possessing as much wealth as Portlanders but what would have organized on a large scale a corporation for developing the mines more thoroughly, erect other furnaces and engage in the manufacture of Steel, Cutlery, or anything promising good return. The present company owning the furnace at Oswego, are men representing large wealth and ought to have business sagacity enough to know that any enterprize promising a return of from 25 to 50 per cent. profit cannot be found at all times. It would pay the wealthiest to purchase of the interests of those wanted, and (if any connected with the company are remunerable) and have the work resumed. Wherever Iron mines, the ore of which is so rich in superior quality of Iron as are those at Oswego, are found, and worked on large and systematic plan they have added more to the population, permanent wealth and diversified industries than can be added through any other sources. In substantiation of the above none need look further than Pennsylvania, where a greater number of wealthy men can be found than in any one State of the Union, not excepting New York, and where also exists a greater diversity of industry, adding more wealth each year.

From the San Francisco Commercial Herald of December 30th, 1872, we clip the following items of change, &c., in the general business market for that city:

The crop question for 1872 seems now to be already settled upon the Pacific Slope. The late heavy rain—several inches more than the entire rain-fall of last year—being sufficient to give us at least a full average crop of cereals, and no one can consider the demand for grain next more than ever before will be the requirements.

Our lumber receipts for the year promise a falling on of nearly 40,000,000 feet, as compared with the receipts of 1870. Our stocks of Redwood and Oregon Pine &c., are exceedingly light for the season.

CANDLES—Stock in warehouse are unusually light for the season. Overland supplies are now interrupted, but cut off for the winter, a few thousand boxes may be expected via Panama, while arrivals by the Horn will be small for some time to come. Under the circumstances holders are firm. The old stock accumulations of last year (light weights) have mostly been consumed, and very little of the new season's manufacturing product of Gardner's manufacture remains on change in reason.

The present price of California and Eastern Canned is as follows in broken parcels: Pienter, $4@4 50; Lime is up to $7@7 25, owing to the destruction of the Florida Diable works by fire.

The Bulletin says we have in San Francisco 104 factories employing through the year 3,444 hands. Each of these on an average, spends $1,000 a year, which is a total number of cigars ——— last year was about 150,000,000, worth $5,250,000. And took 3,750,000 pounds of tobacco leaf in the manufacture. The capital invested is about $2,000,000. The Manila cigar supply has nearly broken up the Havana trade, few now received.

WOOL—The light stocks of Coffee holders twice as [illegible] Fraziers. The weather continues to interfere with the [illegible] travel in all directions is suspended, and trade in consequence, at a stand still. As a matter of course for the most part, in short stock and prices hardening.

A few small invoices of Eastern Mackerel and Cod have arrived, all of the former held above the views of the trade, rendering the replenishing of light supplies. The stock of barrel Salmon is large, and that from Alaska is hard to sell at rates to cover cost. Columbia and Rogue River Salmon are preferred, and are quotable at $8 50@9 in bar-els, $3 50@4 in half bbls. Canned Salmon, $2@2 25 a dozen and 2-lb cans.

Holders of Olive Oils, Sardines, etc., are firm; not disposed to press sales at present.

Produce Markets.

(In absence of telegraphic advices of any transactions in our Produce Markets, we give the latest San Francisco quotations, dates up to December 30th, from the Commercial Herald of that city:—

WHEAT—Immediately following our issue of the 23d a purchase of 675 tons choice Barley for milling purposes was made by two millers at $2 45, being one and three cents. Since then other purchases have been made, including parcels of Oregon White, upon same favorable terms. To-day, six Oregon Colonists sold 1,900 sks Oregon, medium quality, $2 25; 5,000 sks for shipping to be taken up on terms reserved. The price at the close is unsettled, but quotable within the range of $2 15@2 35 ₱ ctl., according to quality.

FLOUR—Advices from Oregon of large shipments to this market, has had, with other local causes, a very depressing effect upon prices. The price for standard brands Superfine is $6, but considerable parcels are occasionally secured upon better terms. Extra brands command $7, but outside brands are now obtainable for less money. The sales for the week have been largely confined to both brands for local use—quotable at $6@7 25; Extra Superfine, $6 25@6 50; Superfine, $5 @5 50—all in coin.

BARLEY—In the present condition of affairs, it is difficult to give correct quotations. The country is flooded with water, receipts light, stocks in store liberal. Bidders cautious to sell, buyers patient about operating, and therefore it is hard to get buyer and seller together.

OATS—There is no life to the market; stocks are liberal, but the wet weather is a bar to outdoor operations. Only a small sale at $1 85 for choice, $1 75 for fair.

CORN—The offerings are light, and with a limited demand prices are nominal, say $2 05@2 00.

POTATOES—Our stock in store has been reduced, it is said to be 3,000 sks. The season for the week under review aggregate 223,000 lbs fall clip in lots of 216 for Barry, and 25@27½c for fair, clean parcels suited to the Eastern market.

General Merchandize.

LIME—Prices, in sympathy with the advance in San Francisco, were marked up Monday to $2 75@2 87½ ₱ bbl.

OIL—Gasoline was advanced in San Francisco to 22½@23 cents ₱ gallon, invoice basis.

SUGAR—The San Francisco Bulletin, under date of December 28th states the supply of raw in first hands at 3,800,000 lbs. Of this quantity the California refinery holds 2,000,000 lbs. The other refineries have scarcely any stock. Of the raw under 3,000,000 lbs White Chief, including 220,000 lbs by the Joseph Clark, now discharging. The stock of Hawaiian in first hands to-day does not exceed 500 Kegs, and this will probably be closed out by the end of the week. We do not recollect a similar period when the stock of this kind was so low. None is expected until the arrival of the new crop in January. The quantity of all kinds taken for consumption during the past year is estimated at 54,000,000 lbs, an increase of 5,603,000 lbs over 1870. We have four refineries in this city. Two of these have been idle for some time, having been bought off until January 1st, 1872. Whether the contract to remain inactive will be renewed we know not; but they cannot start on very short notice, as they have no stock, and must wait arrivals. There are about 8,000 tons of Sugar on the way here, some of which will doubtless drop in within a fortnight.
